REPORT SUMMARY

Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS) completions data indicate that 390 degrees were conferred during the 2013-2014 reporting cycle. This included 16 two-year degrees (4%), 313 four-year degrees (80%), and 61 graduate degrees (16%). This number of completions is consistent with data reported from 2006 through 2014, with an average of 356 completions and a range of 320 in 2006 to 391 in 2012.

Placement Surveys were sent to 383 degree completers; a good response rate of 48% was achieved. Respondents appear to be proportionally representative of the degree categories reflecting the makeup of all completers during the reporting period. Specifically, there were 8 (4%) two-year degree, 145 (80%) four-year degree, and 29 (16%) graduate degree completers who responded to the survey. It should be noted that responses, especially when disaggregated represent a very small number of degree completers. This is especially true of associate degree completers.

Respondents indicated that they reside in 23 different states, with the majority (70%) living in South Dakota. The location with the next largest residency was North Dakota (4%) and Minnesota (4%). Most respondents (93%) indicated that they are employed either part-time or full-time. Thirty-one percent of four-year degree completers indicated that they are attending or plan to attend graduate school; this percentage for advanced degree completers was twenty-one percent. Half of those who indicated they were currently unemployed or seeking employment reported that they are attending or plan to attend graduate school. The majority (70%) of all currently employed respondents indicated that their employment was related to their degree. When combined, 84% of currently employed respondents indicated that their employment was related to their degree and/or appropriate for reaching their career goals.

REPORT BACKGROUND AND METHODS

Data Collection for Completion Information: Completion (graduation) counts match Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS) completions reporting. Degrees awarded in this report are based on degrees awarded during academic year 2013-2014; which is defined to be summer 2013, fall 2013, and spring 2014.

Placement Survey contact cycle for recent graduates: Surveys are sent out in the fall and spring terms to graduates who completed a degree program the preceding year. Each graduate is contacted by email (Appendix A), asking that they report employment status, state of residency, and salary. No postal mailing was sent during this collection cycle. Seven (7) email reminders were sent to individuals who did not respond. When working numbers were available, three (3) phone calls were also made to individuals who did not respond. During the 2013-2014 collection cycle a 48% response rate from the email messages and phone calls was obtained.
